

GESTALT AND ORGANISATIONAL DEVELOPMENT: The power of Emergence and Relationality

With Marie-Anne Chidiac AND Sally Denham-Vaughan

5th June, 2019

There are many diverse paths and approaches that support organisations to develop. However, most still rely on mechanistic assumptions about the nature of business and people but do not adequately address the uncertainty and dynamism of today's complex change situations. In the field of OD (Organisational Development) we believe that Gestalt can offer a unique methodology that harnesses the power of emergence and supports organisations to flourish.

This one day workshop with the co-founders of Relational Change will introduce you to core principles behind our relational organizational gestalt, (ROG), approach and explain why we believe this positions Gestalt practitioners at the leading edge of contemporary OD.

Who can attend? This day is open to all and does not require pre-knowledge of the Gestalt approach.

DR MARIE-ANNE CHIDIAC

Marie-Anne is an experienced change and OD consultant, coach, trainer and supervisor. She has over twenty years' experience of leading change in both the public and private sector. She is co-founder of Relational Change and an accredited coach and associate of Ashridge Business School. Marie-Anne is also the author of Relational Organisational Gestalt: An Emergent Approach to Organisational Development.

DR SALLY DENHAM-VAUGHAN

Sally is an Organisational Consultant, Accredited Coach/Coach Supervisor, International Trainer, Psychotherapist and Supervisor.
